

Is setting up a stall on the ground with goods for sale considered employment?

Yes. The operators of both movable floor stalls and fixed stalls are considered to be employed. This is because they have work and income, in spite of the fact that their working hours and income may often be unstable.